CLOW Gospel Overview

Today we celebrate the Twenty-Seventh Sunday of Ordinary Time. In today's Gospel, we hear how much Jesus loved children. When Jesus' disciples told people to keep their children away from Jesus, Jesus rebuked them and told them to let the children come to him. Jesus valued the way children could see the world through the eyes of wonder and curiosity. Their trust and faith in God and openness to recognizing God's creative action in life was something Jesus valued in children too. We are called to have faith as a child – to be open to God's presence and trust in his love and mercy.
