CLOW Gospel Reflection

Reflection: Today we celebrate the Eighth Sunday in Ordinary Time. In today's Gospel, Jesus is talking to his disciples, telling them of the danger of judging others without first considering one's own weaknesses. It is so easy for us – so human of us to see and judge and critique others and their weaknesses. And it can be so difficult for us to see our own weaknesses. But we are all human, and no one is perfect. So this week, find ways to express care and compassion towards others – especially in moments when you feel likely to be critical of them. Bear the “good fruit,” in you and help others do the same.
